III: The following two paragraphs discuss an event in Roman history. For the first paragraph, select the best answer for each question following. For the second paragraph, fill in the blank with the correct Latin form.

Appius Claudius, vir stultae temeritatis, consul adversus Poenos factus est. Saepe dicebat, quo die hostem vidisset, bellum confecturum esse. Cum ante navale proelium auspicia haberet pullariusque ei nuntiavisset pullos non exire e cavea neque vesci, ridens iussit eos in aquam mergi: "Bibant, cum edere nolint." Cum ea res milites ad omnia multo timidiores fecisset, Claudius tamen proelium commisit. Iratis deis, magna clades a Romanis accepta est: octo eorum milia caesa sunt, viginti milia captata. Qua re Claudius a populo condemnatus est et se interfecit.
