Questions 43-50 refer to the following passage.

Dum Androclus miser stat et timet, leo accedebat. Sed simul atque propinquus servo misero est, subito constitit. Tum ad Androclum placide accessit. Neque virum vulneravit, sed manus lambere cupivit.

“Spectate!” clamaverunt spectatores. “Leo captivum non vulnerat. Captivo amicus est. Quam mirum! Cur leo et vir amici sunt?”

Tandem Androclus leonem cognovit. “Olim,” inquit, “vitam tuam servavi. Hodie vitam meam servavisti.” Laeti erant et servus et leo, quod post moram longam in circo Romano amicum viderunt, quod quoque non iam erat pugna inter virum et bestia.

Imperator Androclum ad se vocavit. “Mihi, serve, responde,” inquit. “Cur te leo non vulneravit? Factum mirum est.” Tum Androclus imperatori et populo Romano fabulam de leone atque causam amicitiae narravit. Grata erat fabula populo et imperator Androclum captivum liberavit. Leonem Androclo dedit, qui postea per vias Romae cum leone saepe ambulabat. Nonne fabula mira est?
