Questions 41- 50 refer to the following passage:

Forte in urbe Faliscorum habitabat quidam magister ludi. Quod hic magister patribus illius urbis gratior atque diligentior erat quam alii magistri, multi pueri, liberi principum, ad ludum eius cotidie mittebantur. Hi discipuli non solum in ludo docebantur sed etiam per vias et agros a magistro ducebantur.

5 Tandem bellum inter Faliscos et Romanos gerebatur et Romanae legiones agros Faliscorum vastabant. Magister autem mores pacis in belli tempore non intermisit: cotidie discipulos sermonibus gratissimis per agros ducebat. Denique perfidia impulsus pueros, qui se in periculo esse non sentiebant, in castra Romana ad imperatorem perduxit. Camillus, vir clarissimus, tum imperator copiarum Romanarum erat; cui sceleratus magister dixit: “Hi pueri sunt liberi principum Faliscorum. Si tu eos retinebis, patres eorum et tota civitas in potestatem tuam se dendent.” Quae ubi Camillus audivit, “Nos Romani arma contra pueros non ferimus.”

10 Deinde imperator iussit manus magistri vinciri. Tum pueris virgas dedit. “Eis virgis illum magistrum sceleratum agite in urbem; ex castris meis eum celeriter pellite; nam perfidia poenam semper meret.” Sine mora pueri magistrum in fugam compulerunt.

[Falisci – a people of Etruria; mos, moris – custom; dedo, dedere – surrender; virga – rod, switch]
